

August 19, 2004

Ms. Cathy Poncabare
California Performance Review Commission

[REDACTED]

Cathy, good day.

We spoke briefly about an experience which I had in the dissolution of a California nonprofit corporation.

The process is unnecessarily laborious, taking up precious time on the state end and the public end. On the following two pages are two ideas to address this. My hope is that the ideas be found worthy and be implemented without delay and without the need for legislation.

Notably, there should be no outlay needed to fulfill the first request, as university students from the CSU could create the online forms. Also, the second request could create a very useful revenue stream for California.

I am available to help voluntarily if the commission decides to implement the ideas.

Please advise. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Van Ajemian

Van Ajemian, J.D.

[REDACTED]

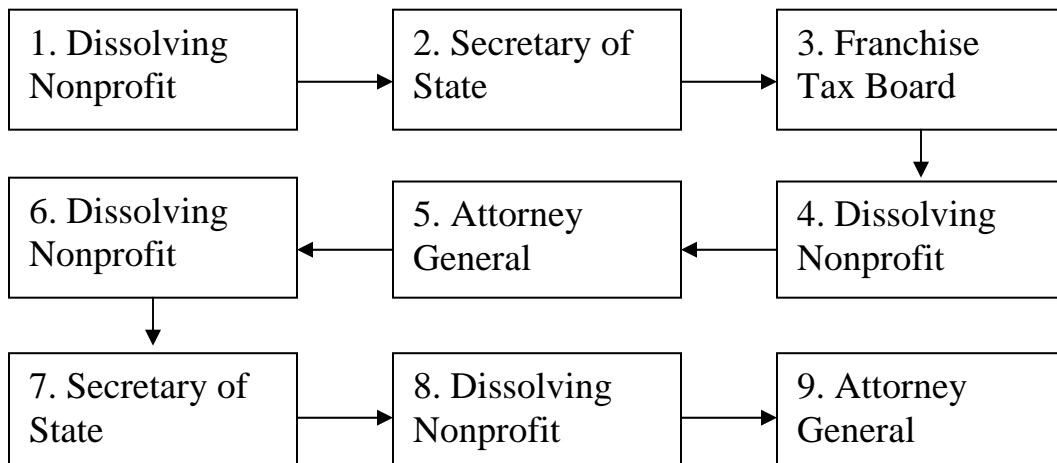

Enclosure

TWO REQUESTS TO CPR COMMISSION REGARDING PROCESS FOR THE DISSOLUTION OF A CALIFORNIA NONPROFIT CORPORATION

1. First Request.

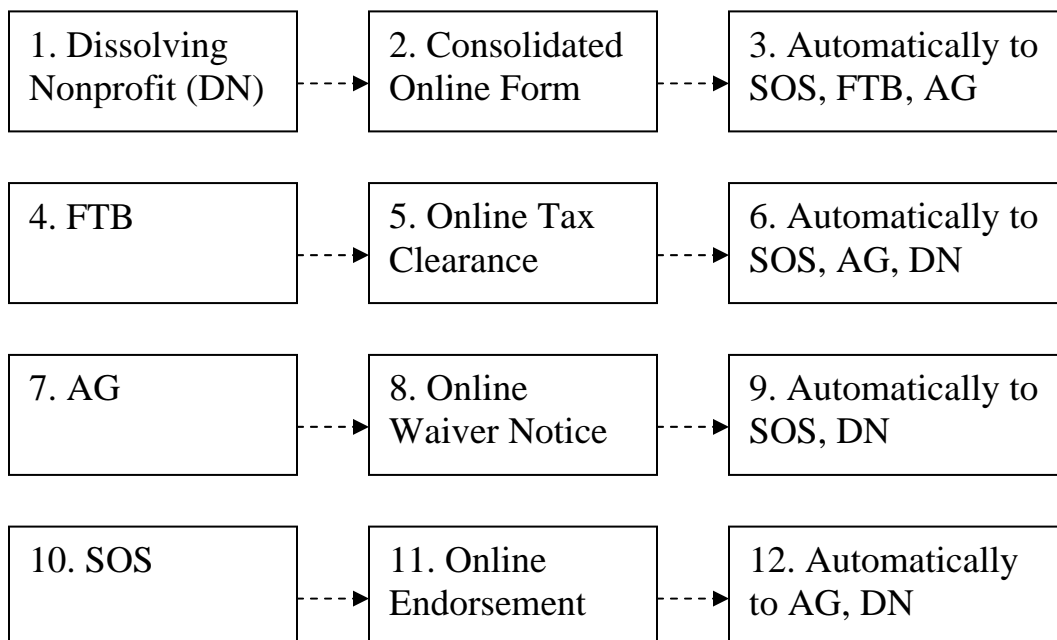

A. The Process Now. “—————>” refers to a mailing.

This tedious process applies even when the nonprofit had no assets, no liabilities, no income, and no disbursements.

B. Requested Process “----->” refers to Internet transmittal.

Faster, paperless, electronic archiving, electronically-available public records.

TWO REQUESTS TO CPR COMMISSION
REGARDING PROCESS FOR THE DISSOLUTION
OF A CALIFORNIA NONPROFIT CORPORATION

2. Second Request.

Expedited Electronic-Identification Network (“EXCELLENT”).

Fee-based. Substitutes for mandated signatures on legally-enforceable documents, thereby making expeditious and frequent use of online forms possible.

A string of letters and numbers chosen by the registrant substitutes for a signature.

Fees will be low, but because the Internet is inexpensive to operate, there will be net income for the state to grant for the operation of the community program “PROSPER”, thereby sustaining communities economically, socially, environmentally, educationally, and civically.

If legislation will be required, the Governor can start with an executive order by which any person, corporation or government agency transmitting a document to his office may do so using EXCELLENT, enabling EXCELLENT to be created and demonstrated to the state legislature in advance of legislation.

Van Ajemian, J.D.

